

I urge the FCC to retain existing restrictions on media consolidation. Even the current limits have allowed excessive corporate influence on news reporting, as has been clearly apparent in the uniformity and shallowness of broadcasts on the war in Iraq. The FCC should not proceed with any changes without a full public debate on the impact on our First Amendment rights.